

Treasury Set To Borrow With Debt Ceiling Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the next couple of months, the government will be skating very close to the 275 billion dollar legal limit of the national debt. It may get as close as several hundred million dollars.

To meet heavy government expenses in the next few months—a period when tax revenues are traditionally low—the Treasury said yesterday it will borrow three billion dollars in a variety of securities with maturity periods ranging from 1 to 12 years. The issues all will carry interest rate of 4 per cent.

By the end of this month, a Treasury spokesman said, the government will be within half a billion dollars of the debt ceiling. That tight situation is expected to last for several months, at least.

The debt now stands at about 273 billion dollars, of which 114 billions will be paid off when a series of 119-day tax anticipation bills mature Sept. 23. Another half billion dollars comes due Oct. 1. The new securities which the Treasury will offer for sale next Monday are 500 million dollars in 12-year bonds, 1 1/4 billions in five-year notes and 750 millions in one-year certificates.

The five-year notes may be cashed in at the end of 2 1/2 years at the holder's option, provided he gives the Treasury three months advance notice.

The 4 per cent interest rate, although high, it is still under the 4.173 per cent rate which the government paid on an issue of 1 1/2 billions in 237-day Treasury bills last month.

Detroit Mayor Succumbs At 63 To Heart Attack

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit, titular head of the Republican party in Michigan, died last night 11 hours after suffering a heart attack. He was 63.

Cobo, mayor of this industrial city of 2 1/2 million persons since 1950, collapsed at his home yesterday morning, a few hours after he had returned from Washington, where he testified in a hearing before the Federal Power Commission.

It was Cobo's second severe heart attack. He was away from his office several weeks after an attack in April 1952.

Cobo was a former president of the American Municipal Assn., and a trustee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

As Republican nominee for governor in 1956, he was beaten soundly by Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Carrie Heads North, Ships Get Warning

MIAMI (INS)—Hurricane Carrie, with her winds now estimated at 110 miles an hour, continued moving northward today at 7 to 10 MPH and is expected to keep away from the United States eastern coastline.

The third tropical storm of the season was pinpointed by the Miami Weather Bureau in its latest (5 a. m. EST) advisory at 875 miles southeast of Bermuda. The storm is expected to continue moving toward the north at 10 MPH in the next 12 hours.

No important change in size or intensity of the hurricane is expected during the next 12 hours. Ships in the path of Carrie and its projected path were warned to exercise caution.

About 30 members of the Citizens Council gathered outside the Easton primary school on Sept. 5.

Francis Berry and Mrs. O. N. Andrews were arrested for picketing and held for the grand jury on charges of conspiracy.

Berry carried a sign reading "Let's Keep Our White Schools All White."

Mrs. Andrews read "If We Want Our Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren to be All White, Let's Keep Our Schools All White."

Lester Chance, 39, was arrested for using profane language and held for a jury trial on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Three Children Killed Mother Sends Motorist Reminder Of Accident

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A letter addressed to "Dear Mr. Motorist" arrived at the Mirror-News.

"I am not writing this to you to remind you all over again," the letter said, "but to all motorists because school again begins."

"I want to prevent the tragedy that we have shared together—a mother and you, Mr. Motorist."

"That day three sun-banned little faces smiled as they waved me a happy goodbye and so important they went on their way to school. I wanted to call them back to tell them how lonesome it would be."

"Mr. Motorist, I wanted to kiss them once more. . . . Then I saw you take that corner—tires screaming, car out of control."

"What was your hurry? Were you late for work? Were you angry at someone?"

"Surely not my three. I am sure you would not want to run your screaming tires over their happy faces intentionally, erasing forever the smiles they had for me."

"But, Mr. Motorist, children are very forgiving in life and I'm sure—in death. They would if they could, pat your hand and feel sad that because of one tragic moment you are left to live over and over again how your love of speed took three lives."

"I don't hate you any more, I feel sorry for you. I can still see those smiling little faces as they wave me goodbye."

The letter was signed, Under the signature this postscript: "Another year. And once again your flowers arrive. They are beautiful. Thank you."

The newspaper sent reporter Charles Neiswander to investigate. He talked with a close friend of the letter writer. She told him the letter was written four years ago on the first anniversary of the tragedy. It was written but never intended to be mailed to the man who was driving the car. The friend sent the

Beck Pleads Innocent To Tax Dodging

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Dave Beck has told a federal judge what he hopes he can convince a jury next spring—that he is innocent of a charge of defrauding the government of $184,000 in income taxes.

The slightly nervous Teamsters Union president entered the formal plea yesterday before Federal Judge George Boldt. In it he denied charges recently returned in a seven-count indictment by a federal grand jury concerning his income for the years 1951-53.

With him in court and also entering innocent pleas to charges they conspired to aid Beck in the evasion were his son Dave Jr., a union organizer, and two other Teamster officials, Fred Ver-schuren Sr., Teamsters Union auditor, and Norman J. Gessert, a cousin of Mrs. Beck Sr. and a union organizer.

Ike Planning To Listen To Faubus At Conference

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower is profoundly hopeful that out of his meeting tomorrow with Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus may come a pattern for quieter solution of school integration troubles.

That doesn't mean the President intends to set forth any new or startling formula when he and Faubus confer at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here at the U.S. naval base.

For that matter, Eisenhower is understood to be planning to do a great deal of listening to the governor, whose suggestion it was that they "counsel together" in an effort to resolve a momentous federal-state impasse over the halting of court-ordered school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

But the President's swift acceptance of the proposal that he and Faubus meet face-to-face served to underscore how eager Eisenhower is to work out a solution and perhaps open the way for easing of Southern resistance to integration.

The President attaches so much importance to tomorrow's session that he has instructed two top aides—Atty. Gen. Brownell and chief White House assistant Sherman Adams—to fly from Washington for the meeting.

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), who has been acting as an intermediary between the White House and Faubus, will sit in at tomorrow's conference. He said in Little Rock it was he who originated the idea of an Eisenhower-Faubus meeting.

Faubus has said he called out National Guardsmen in Little Rock to preserve peace and order, and he asserted—in a telegram to Eisenhower Wednesday—that "it is certainly my desire" to comply with the court, "consistent with my responsibilities." Injunction proceedings have been initiated in U.S. District Court.

Not A Dark Horse

QUITE A FEW knowing politicians in Washington believe Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader, intends to make a serious bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. In lawmaking circles, Johnson's stock is very high right now. Veterans of both parties have nothing but praise for his management of affairs in the 1957 session of Congress. He is viewed as a master legislative technician, shrewd in maneuver, superb at piloting a proposal to passage. But members of Congress do not nominate candidates for president. The important questions are whether Johnson really does want the nod, and what effective strength he might muster toward getting it.

EFFECTIVE strength means delegate votes in the national convention. That is the only testing ground that matters. No one, of course, can be sure exactly what is in Johnson's mind. But his behavior in Congress, particularly his increasing efforts to advance imaginative policy proposals, strongly suggests to his colleagues and to most observers that he wants the 1960 nomination. Though it is early to say, the chances are good that he could put together a big block of southern delegates, possibly 300 or more. If he did that, unquestionably he would be a figure to be reckoned with at convention time. But he understands better than many that it is a long way from that point to the nomination. The experts consider it axiomatic in the Democratic party that a winning candidate must be acceptable to both the North and the South and must be able to draw delegate strength from both areas.

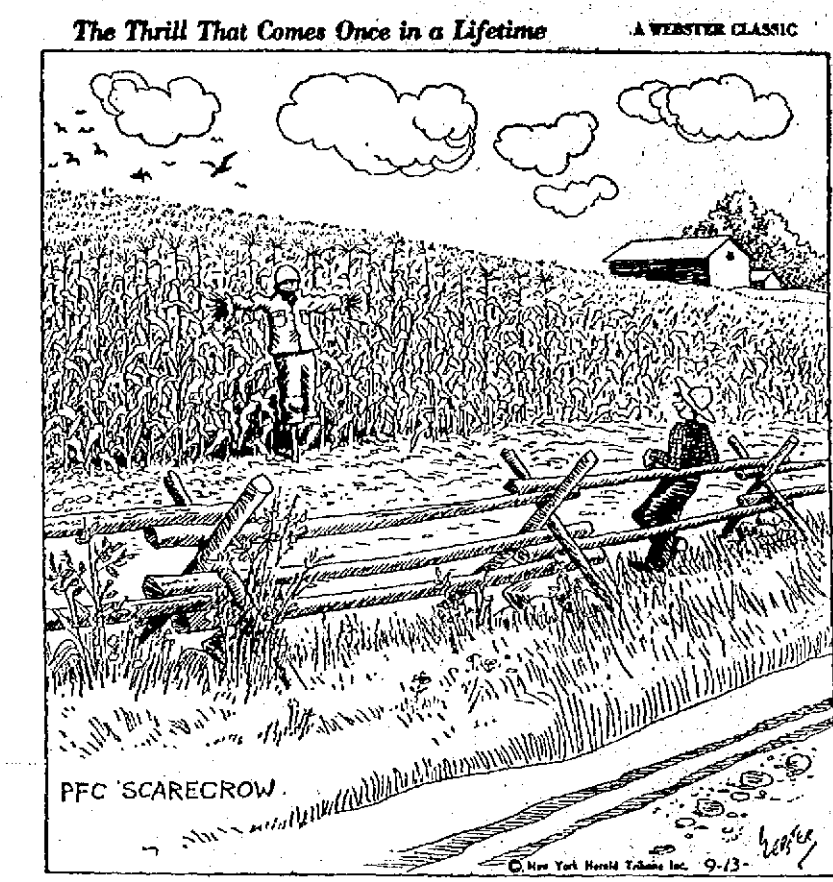

WHETHER Johnson could achieve that objective is the issue. His popularity in the Senate might be of some help in certain western states represented now by Democratic senators. Often, however, experience shows that it is the governors, not the senators, who call the turn at conventions. And some of the biggest and most powerful states have no Democratic senators. Broadly speaking, there are no clear signs at this time that Johnson would be acceptable to the North. Civil rights and other issues make it extremely difficult for him to gain a wide base in that sector. If, under all the expected handicaps, Johnson were to achieve countrywide support in his party in the next three years, he would have to be hailed as master politician, as he is now called master lawmaker.

A PROFESSOR at Princeton recently attempted to pay his taxes a second time. There have been many stories of absent minded professors but this fellow takes the prize for proving that truth is stranger than fiction.

The Women's Part

IF WOMEN DO NOT decide the presidential race in 1960, they probably will do so before long. The Census Bureau estimates that in that year there will be 52,250,000 men of 21 years of age and over, and 55,500,000 women. The women's majority of 3,250,000 will be a gain from 1956, when it was about 2,000,000. So if the women all stood together, they could elect their choice regardless of the men. If they all stood together. As everyone knows, they do not, any more than men do. Also, though exact figures are not available, the experience in most states is that more women than men fail to vote. Despite the part that women play in business and civic life, many are still uninterested in politics. Nor is this surprising. The woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution is only a little more than a generation old. It takes more time than that for a radically new idea to take hold fully. The difference in male and female voting records will grow gradually less and less. With males now a minority and steadily getting more so, the presidential candidate of the future is likely to address his campaign more and more to what he considers the woman's point of view. This conclusion is hard on the male ego, but it is one of the political facts of life.

A KU KLUX Klan team fared well in a recent softball tournament. It might be remembered that the only "decor" people who wear masks on a ball field are umpires and catchers.

South Fails To Adjust, Reporter Holds

WASHINGTON—Not so many years ago it never would have happened. Our Secretary of State would never have been asked at a news conference if purely domestic vents would hurt conduct of our foreign policy.

But nobody showed any surprise when John Foster Dulles was asked that at his news conference this week about what is happening in the South on public school integration.

The asking of the question was, in itself, recognition of a fact that we all now accept—that we have assumed a position of leadership in the world which carries a heavy responsibility and which makes our national life, our behavior as a people, an open book.

We can be a good example, which helps our standing among people of other nations. Or we can, as in the present turning of our Southern exposure to the world, be a bad example to be exploited by Soviet Russia.

placed in public life as he is defies the law, the ignorant, the mean, and the mischievous would accept him as an excuse for such shocking demonstrations as have occurred here and there.

Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas has got himself badly out of line. His immediate case is now in the hands of the courts. But the real case involving Governor Faubus is waiting for a jury of his peers—those Southern political, civic and religious leaders who have been working faithfully and carefully at gradualism and moderation.

They have achieved, after devoted application, such results as the 10-year Little Rock school integration plan, which is certainly the very quintessence of gradualism, and the Nashville plan beginning with the first grade.

Governor Faubus struck just as directly at them as he did at the Federal government.

It would seem that it is now up to those Southern leaders to speak out clearly about Governor Faubus and about the course of the South. This is just as important for the future of the South as it is for President Eisenhower to maintain the authority of the Federal government against the assault of Governor Faubus.

with every Southerner, which is hard and must be worked at constantly. But it can be done. There are many who have gone through with it.

Still, in the South you hear the plea, "Go slow." It has been so for nearly a century. Once uttered, it is taken as an excuse not to face up to the necessary personal adjustment.

That personal adjustment, we repeat, is hard, but so is the life of those who are discriminated against because they happen to be born black. It has been over 90 years since human slavery was ended, and we all pledged ourselves, South and North, to make freedom real in every sense, including freedom of education.

IT HAS BEEN 61 years since the Supreme Court's decision in the Plessy versus Ferguson case established the "separate but equal" doctrine. But did the South move promptly to apply that to public schools for Negroes? It did not.

In truth, it has been only in the last few years that Southern states began to move toward "equal" facilities for Negroes. They then moved effectively with building programs for Negro schools and better pay for Negro teachers. It was a hasty move, because they wanted to forestall an integration decision from the Supreme Court which some began to believe would come.

Finally, in 1953, the Supreme Court did adopt as its unanimous decision what had been the minority opinion of 1896 in the Plessy versus Ferguson case, the dissent of Justice John M. Harlan with the famous line, "The constitution is color blind."

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Adlai Stevenson was rushing down New York's busy Seventh Ave. the other day when he was suddenly stopped by a middle-aged woman.

With tears streaming down her face, the lady stammered, "Mr. Stevenson, it's so wonderful to finally get to meet you."

The slightly astonished Stevenson politely acknowledged the greeting, glanced at his wrist watch and hurriedly excused himself. "I really can't talk now," he apologized. "I'm already late for an important appointment."

A few minutes later, the former presidential candidate met the same woman on an elevator. Wiping away the tears which still poured from her eyes, the woman cried, "Oh, Mr. Stevenson, we worked so hard to put you where you should be."

"Madam," Stevenson replied.

"right now I should be in a conference on the 14th floor."

AIR FORCE Secretary James H. Douglas' curiosity was aroused at a recent air power exhibit when he noticed five little boys carrying away all the information handouts from a jet airplane display.

"No, fellows," the secretary politely asked, "what are you doing with all our handouts? Don't you think you should leave some for the other people?"

"No, we don't," one little boy replied. "We're going to give them to our friends. And then we're going to read them so we can learn how to be jet pilots."

Douglas agreed this was a good idea and let the boys go on their way.

Whitney Bolton
Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—The telephone rings early, and a gentleman with the greatest earnestness asks you to come to his office at 2:30 that afternoon to "try our exquisite new flavors in vodka."

You ask him, just for the record, what the new flavors are and he says: "Mint, grape, lime, chocolate" and you cut in and say: "Are you seriously telling me that you are promoting a chocolate-flavored vodka?" He says he certainly is and you say, well, thanks, but you won't be there.

VODKA is an alcoholic potable some 300 years old, invented in Peru and not in Russia, and for three centuries it has been a clear, relatively unchanged liquor which, in the last 10 years, has made enormous strides in the United States to the chagrin of gin distillers.

As one who chaseth not, neither does he spin because of too many vodkas, you can say that it is bland and easy to take, if you are of the taking persuasion, but that nothing is more loathsome to think about on a humid morning than chocolate-flavored vodka. You'd as lief put chocolate syrup on cherrystone clams.

now and you have on hand all that the girls in your family can use.

THEN YOU get a call asking you if it is true that Henry Bendel, a modiste, is celebrating 60 years in business as gown-maker to New York society. And you are bound to answer that it is not true: it is 59 years, and you are a little startled as to how you happened to know that.

You can't recall ever having been told, but after the inquirer hangs up you call Bendel's and they say, yes, the first store was opened in 1898 — which is 59 years ago. As for being gown-maker to New York society, you can't say at all. Your two contracts with that misty, ephemeral group never exactly defined are elsewhere.

Jack Whitney is our Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, and John McClain is off somewhere in a yachting race in the Mediterranean. You doubt that either would be able to answer, even if asked. Samuel Johnson once wrote: "When pleasure is to be had, it is fit to catch it," but Sam wasn't writing about asking men of New York society foolish questions.

THERE WAS a time, soon after repeal, when the gin manufacturers started to flavor an honest, old potable. There was orange gin, lime gin, mint gin, apple gin, and also one with a sprig of cinnamon in it, all of which have just about vanished from our scene, thanks to the stone bottles, a lethal distillation called Holland Gin, but the only voters in its camp seem to be whaling captains (there still are such around), explorers and a few slightly addicted novelists who would drink cobra venom if it caused enough talk.

THE SECOND call is from a young lady (she sounded young, in any case) who asks forthwith: "Would you like a sample of our new oval lipstick?" and you say, no, thanks, you would but, since among your many weaknesses lipstick in any shape is not one.

So she says, "Don't you know that oval is the true beauty curve of nature and not the circle?" and you say, "Beauty is in the beholder's eye," as someone once wrote, and even if it were hexagonal or a parallelogram, you still would not want any lipstick, thank you, because Random House, who publish books, seem to be in the lipstick trade

NO PHONE calls intruding, you fall to looking out a skyscraper window and studying the infinite, never still, always shifting pattern of New York, from the grim little tenement roofs of the Lower East Side to the bright, gleaming commercial towers of a Park Avenue suddenly gone to trade.

You think that of all the night airplane rides available, the world over, none is as dramatic and colorful as a flight over Manhattan in the dark, with the ropes and skeins of light and color below, and that of all cities in the world to study in daylight from above, New York offers the most.

At the moment, your eye catches a rooftop in the East 60's (you can't be sure exactly what street) where a slim, blonde and exceedingly tanned young woman, in a bikini and not much of that, is dunking a naked baby in a plastic pool.

You cannot hear them, only see them, and that at a distance, but you imagine them both laughing long and loud as they splash and play.

New York is great fun at any time, excitement at all times — even when telephones ring with daffy suggestions.

WASHINGTON—Down in Bartlesville, Okla., the folks are looking ($9.50 per set per month) at first-run movies on their own TV screens, without interruptions, tolling beer, deodorant, cigarettes, hair curlers, electric razors, or even canned ham.

Here in the capital the Washington Broadcasting Company, now operating a radio station, has applied to the locals for permission to string its pay TV wires through the telephone company conduits. Numerous other firms around the country have the same idea.

thinking of sending sports on it and news and, so help me, they're talking about including advertising.

That would be the complete circle for sure. The original idea of about half a dozen big firms, like the Zenith Corporation, to name one, was to charge the householders so they wouldn't be bothered by patent-medicine salesmen.

Now the Oklahomans are wondering if advertising wouldn't help pay the freight on expensive shows. They also think the clients might be so used to seeing ads on free performances that they'd miss 'em. They may have something.

THIS IS leaving the gentlemen of the Federal Communications Commission, in charge of radio and television doings, biting their fingernails. For five years now the commissioners have been arguing among themselves and reading books of briefs (70 volumes of pleadings filed so far), and they still haven't made up their minds.

The gentlemen are holding a special meeting on the subject on September 17, but this is of no interest whatever to the fellows here, in Bartlesville, and elsewhere who got tired of waiting for the Federal government to decide.

They just tacked up some wires on the telephone poles. The moving pictures flow along these cables and into the living rooms of the cash customers, without using even a whiff of the public air, over which the FCC rules.

I MUST ADMIT, myself, that there are a couple of breweries showing cartoons advertising suds that strike me as being funnier than most TV comedies. I also enjoy looking at the beautiful blondes getting curls from the goo in a spray bottle.

The situation, as you may gather, is in a state of flux. It may even be that the commissioners will have to pay their own money to see the wired shows. That'll be the day.

THERE ARE no more carrier pigeons in the United States, though they once ranged in such flocks as to darken the skies. The whooping crane, thanks to the presence of man the destroyer, has dwindled in numbers until it is on the verge of extinction.

The men who wiped out the carrier pigeon might be excused on the grounds that they were thoughtless rather than vicious, and that the pigeons made good food. It is a little harder to justify what has happened to the whooping crane.

The decline of the bald eagle, which is protected by federal law but offers a tempting shot to the hunter not too finicky about such details, also is hard to explain away. Despite our vaunted civilization, man is still the worst enemy of the natural world.

The latest evidence of this comes from Tasmania. In that Australian state, fishermen have been annoyed because the cormorants are doing what comes naturally—that is, catching and eating trout.

As in all such cases, the conclusion has been that the offenders must go. The cormorants are being killed in droves by the anglers, and their eggs are being destroyed in the rookeries.

It is not hard to see what is coming. A few years hence the cry will go up that Tasmania's noble cormorants are about to become extinct, and great pains will be taken to protect the last remnants of the flocks. It's enough to make a man laugh. It is also rather sad.

This lovely coastal city rivals Monte Carlo for party-throwing prowess. Friends of the ambassador say he just didn't want to miss out on any of the social life.

NEW YORK—Did anyone in history except Doris Day set out by railroad from Los Angeles to New York with a husband, a fine son, and only five gallons of ice cream?

Probably not. But Doris—born Doris Kappelhoff in Cincinnati—arrived here with her family intact. But most of the ice cream was gone.

Her big favorite en route: Chocolate mixed with hunks of marshmallows and almonds.

Doris, a former dance band singer, now a movie actress, is a breezy girl with freckles. She has vitality, charm, and stirs an air of friendliness.

She is fun to interview, from the standpoint of a reporter who had never met her before.

It was my idea to ask her, since she seems so untroubled in a troubled world, what was her recipe on how to live better.

"YOU'LL MAKE ME look foolish," she protested over a plate of moo goo gey pan at a Chinese restaurant. She's the kind of Chinese food eater who looks for the water chestnuts.

"I have read that lemon milk is the best thing for you," she said. But I've never tried it.

"Most people think that living is racing the clock. I don't."

"I think maybe people should live a little easier, as people seem to do in Paris. Every country has a hint to offer on how to live."

"Such as the idea of taking a nap after lunch. Or like in Japan, where they take off their shoes before they eat and rest their feet."

Doris, who is the uncrowned ice cream eating champion of Hollywood continued: "I like to sleep 10 hours a night. In our field there are many people with insomnia who worry and worry and still have to get up at 5:30 in the morning."

"I think Frank Sinatra is right in the idea that they shouldn't start shooting until noon—but work later into the evening."

ASKED WHY SHE herself is so happily vibrant, Doris said:

"I like to walk. I also exercise six or seven minutes morning and night. Some people say that it is a bore to exercise. But I have found it takes very little time—and it makes me feel good."

Doris, who says she cries more often at unexpected beauty rather than at sadness, is a reservoir of health hints.

She is frank in acknowledging she likes fine clothes but would rather wear than design them, would rather eat a good meal than cook it.

In her childhood a long illness gave her many months in which to brood or build. She made her choice and built her career from a sick bed.

Doris Day's prescription for insomnia: "Buy a cat and sleep whenever it does."

NEW YORK—Today in America—because of primeval legends and an ancient fear of witches—$250-million in business will be lost by people too superstitious to buy or sell on a Friday the 13th.

"Even the N. Y. stock exchange, which you'd think rather smarter than all that, will be affected," said Claudia De Lys, the world's leading expert on superstitions. "And isn't it ridiculous?"

"Why, any real student of superstition knows that you can get by beautifully on Friday the 13th if you carry a four-leaf clover. And in case you've run short of the real thing, they're making clover in fabric versions now, which will do just fine."

Miss De Lys, a woman so securely confident that she intentionally walks under ladders—stepping on cracks as she strides—doesn't laugh at people who are superstitious (and nearly 100 per cent are, in one way or another). In fact, she thinks some of the most rabid charm and token-collectors are most fortunate.

"A MAN WHO really believes that a rabbit's foot is lucky has almost confidence in his superstitious crutch. This is an age of increasing fear and uncertainty. The so-called 'smart people' are spending a great deal of money on peace-of-mind books and doctors for the brain—but the superstitious man gets by cheap."

"I might call good luck charms the 'poor man's tranquilizer.' In fact, I think I will."

Leafing through her file index of more than 60,000 superstitions, their causes and effects, Miss De Lys came up with the facts, real and imagined, on "Friday the 13th."

"The origins of Friday superstitions are many," she said. "Eve is supposed to have tempted Adam with the fatal apple on Friday; the flood in the Bible, the confusion in the tower of Babel, and the death of Christ all took place on that day."

"Friday was also the Sabbath of many primitive peoples—it still is for the Mohammedans—but later it became a custom of the Jews and early Christians to fast and feel humility on that day."

THE DAY FRIDAY was named after Frigg (or Frigga), the Norse goddess of marriage, who became "confused" with Freya, the goddess of love. When the Norsemen and Germanic tribes became Christians, Freya was supposed to have been banished to the mountains as a witch.

"And then—Miss De Lys continued, "Friday came to be called 'Witches' Sabbath' for it was believed that on this day each week, 12 witches and the devil met —13 spirits up to no good!"

The taboo of the number, 13, is traced back to the days when man was first learning to count. "By using his 10 fingers and counting his feet as two units, he came up with the number 12. Beyond that lay the unknown—and that meant fear."

A great many Americans simply stay in bed on Friday the 13th, as a precaution against trouble. But the man with a clover for a bunny's foot that he believes in, considers himself safe.

Miss De Lys chuckled genially. "Of course, the superstition says that the rabbit's foot should be a back paw, and most of the commercial variety are taken from the front, since the back foot is too big to carry in your pocket."

"But people don't realize that. And I always say—differing with the old finger-and-foot counters—that you don't know won't hurt you!"

Irrigation Needs New Set Of Laws

Editor's note: This is the last of three articles on farm irrigation in Maryland.

By HERB THOMPSON
ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Farm experts are agreed that new laws are needed if irrigation of crops is to become a widespread practice in Maryland.

Maryland has virtually no legislation on the subject, and the General Assembly has shelved what plans did pop up. But this year there's been a drought—the most severe one since 1930—and pro-irrigationists feel the stage is finally set for action.

Senate President Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert) has taken the lead in getting something started. He called a conference on farm leaders and legislators in Southern Maryland during the height of the drought.

The upshot was the naming of a committee headed by Sen. Joseph A. Mattingly (D-St. Marys) to draft an irrigation program for presentation to the 1958 General Assembly, take it around the state and sell it to the farmers. The committee will hold its first session tomorrow at the home of David Hume near Brynawton in Charles County.

It faces many problems, chief of which is to determine how farmers who live in a watershed area, but not immediately adjoining a stream, can get water to their crops.

The common law doctrine of riparian rights is the only guidepost on the lawbooks. That permits only property owners adjoining a stream to take a reasonable amount of water for domestic and farm use. And they can't impair the flow of the stream to the detriment of a neighbor downstream.

According to the University of Maryland, 124 farms of 240 being irrigated tap directly from a river or stream for their water supply. The majority of others catch water in a farm pond fed by a stream, spring or shallow well dug to water table level (up to 22 feet). These are the least expensive sources of irrigation water, and about a fourth of the ponds have failed to produce sufficient water because they weren't large enough.

Only 21 farms in the Maryland survey were irrigated from deep wells, a more expensive water source because of the drilling and the necessity of a submersible pump to get water to the surface.

University researchers report that the cost of drilling a well may range from $3 to $100 per foot, depending on the size. In extreme cases the farmer may have to go as deep as 400 feet to hit water, but many find it less than half that depth. Most of those who have drilled wells seem satisfied with the results.

Dr. Joseph T. Singewald Jr., director of Maryland's Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, says large and sustained yields of water for irrigation are obtainable only from surface waters in Western and Central Maryland. He says 94 percent of these waters run to waste in the ocean during times of plentiful rainfall.

Dr. Singewald has proposed modifying the doctrine of riparian rights to permit farmers living in watershed areas to impound excess surface water at a time it is running off so they would have it available for irrigation in dry seasons. He suggests the dams and ponds could be financed through loans from the county or state government.

In Tidewater Maryland—the southern counties and the Eastern Shore—farmers can find abundant underground water for irrigation if they don't have a stream or other surface source to draw from, Dr. Singewald said. He said that underlying this area are tremendous reservoirs of artesian water which could be obtained at a steady yield if farmers are willing to dig for it.

The Mattingly committee will discuss around Dr. Singewald's suggestions, and go into the many pros and cons of giving farmers rights to cross neighboring property lines to get to water sources. A number of meetings will probably be held on the subject in different sections of the state.

Mattingly says the group also will explore the cost factors in irrigation—how feasible it is for certain crops and how much it's costing farmers to develop water sources and procure irrigation equipment. Many holding back now question whether it will pay for its investment in higher crop yields.

Costs of systems now in use vary from $700 to the thousands of dollars, depending on areas to be irrigated, source of water supply and other factors. University of Maryland researchers estimate it costs up to $5 an acre to operate a system once it is installed.

Mattingly hopes the committee can come up with definite suggestions that will make it possible for more farmers to turn to irrigation.

"We don't doubt that there's plenty of water in Maryland," the senator said. "The question is how to get it."

There is gold in the "silver town" on the flank of Mont Blanc, highest mountain in Europe. A mountain guide, Georges Charlet, his son, Jean-Paul, and an X-ray technician have found gold sands in the creek beds and a vein of gold ore where a glacier had recently melted. As a result there has been a miniature gold rush at the local village. The village name is Argentieres, "silver town," according to Informations of Madrid.

Governor Says Hospital Head Not Leader

Superintendent Of Institution Asked For Resignation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. Cecil Underwood spoke out last night in the case of the resignation of the superintendent of Huntington State Hospital.

The governor told a press conference Dr. Norton H. Bare, was asked to resign and labeled Bare's charges of political interference "ridiculous, on the surface at least."

Underwood said Bare was a "fine person, a medical missionary, and a Christian gentleman." But the governor also said that after due consideration by himself and Dr. William B. Rossman, director of the Mental Health Department, it was decided that Dr. Bare lacked the "firm, aggressive leadership" required by the job.

Bare said yesterday that he had to put up with interference by a state senator and "an official of the state liquor department," neither of whom he called by name, and Emil Baldwin, business manager at the Huntington institution.

The chief executive also told newsmen the raids on alleged book making establishments in the Wheeling area have resulted from careful planning.

He said the police department of Baltimore, Md. aided in the investigation which preceded the raids. The cost of the outside help, he said, was small and was paid for out of the governor's contingent fund.

Four Wheeling establishments were raided simultaneously yesterday, resulting in the arrest of eight persons. Six were charged with bookmaking and two with selling liquor illegally.

Virginia To Take River Fight To Supreme Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—Virginia has officially told Maryland that the next round of their historic bout over bivalves and other delicacies of the Potomac River will be fought in the Supreme Court.

C. F. Hicks, assistant attorney general of the Old Dominion, delivered the message yesterday.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert of the Free State accepted it.

Hicks called on them with legal notices that Virginia was filing suit in the highest court of the land today to block Maryland from washing its hands of the Compact of 1783.

That's the document which gave Virginians equal fishing rights with Marylanders in the Maryland-owned Potomac. In exchange, Marylanders received free passage through the Virginia Capes guarding the entrance to the Chesapeake Bay.

The 1957 Maryland Legislature enacted legislation declaring the compact no longer in effect. It acted after complaints that Virginians were flaunting conservation laws and Virginia officials had refused to cooperate with Maryland prosecutors.

The notices delivered by Hicks told Maryland that Virginia was filing Supreme Court motions for leave to file a bill of complaint, setting forth details of the controversy, and for a temporary restraining order.

The motion for the restraining order asks that there be no change in bi-state use of the river until the court hands down a decision on the bill of complaint.

Hicks told the Maryland governor the Old Dominion is asking the court to rule that Maryland cannot, "by its sole act, abrogate a compact for mutual benefit of Virginians and Marylanders."

McKeldin replied he hoped the court would find in Maryland's favor.

"But whatever the decision of the Supreme Court," he added, "you can be sure that we shall faithfully obey it."

As he and Hicks posed for news photographers, the governor laughingly remarked:

"It's always a pleasure to see our friends from Virginia, but don't expect me to shake hands over this."

The compact provided that it should never be repealed or altered without the consent of both states and that no laws applying to the oystering, fishing or navigation in the river could become effective unless both states agreed.

The Virginia legal papers noted that over the years many such

Britain Seeks Polio Vaccine

LONDON (AP)—British Ministry of Health officials are coming to the United States to buy Salk vaccine.

The British government reversed itself yesterday and lifted its ban on importation of large quantities of the anti-polio serum from the U. S.

Thus the buyers will be able to spend as many millions of dollars as necessary to fill the gap between British production of the vaccine and the nation's needs for it.

Laws have been passed by the two states.

Besides the compact legislation, the 1957 Maryland Legislature enacted legislation providing for continued use of the river by Virginians, subject to Maryland licensing and conservation regulations. Both laws were dated to become effective last June 1.

To permit Maryland to enforce this, said the Virginia complaint, "would result in untold hardship on approximately 300 citizens of Virginia who annually engage in tanning for oysters in the Potomac River as a means of livelihood."

The complaint listed the number of Virginians fishing, crabbing and oystering in the Potomac annually and described Virginia Fisheries Commission activities to enforce concurrent laws.

The legislation to abolish the compact stemmed from Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission reports of several incidents, some punctuated by gunfire, involving its enforcement officers and Virginia fishermen.

It was sponsored by three delegates whose counties border on the river — Dels. Frank Combs and J. Frank Raley Jr. (D-St. Marys) and John T. Parran Jr. (D-Charles).

They contended that the 1789 birth of the U. S. Constitution, in which the states conceded jurisdiction of interstate navigation to the federal government, wiped out Virginia's earlier concessions to Maryland.

This left in effect only the compact provision through which Maryland surrendered jurisdiction over the Potomac, they argued, and Virginians were avoiding prosecution for violations of laws set up by joint jurisdiction.

They cited especially reports of illegal oyster dredging by Virginians. A delegation of Virginia lawmakers asked Maryland legislators to kill the bill to abolish the compact and promised to work for better cooperation between law enforcement officers of the two states.

Parents To Sign For Study Groups

Registration for revised parent-child study groups in county public schools will be held September 23-24 between 1 and 4 p. m. in school principals' offices, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel, announces.

Higgins emphasized registrations must be forwarded to his office not later than Wednesday, September 25.

Leaders will be paid by the Board of Education for their service and the supervisor believes that each group should have at least 25 parents enrolled with a minimum attendance of 15. Each group will be restricted to those who register September 23 and 24. Groups will be closed at 4 p. m. September 25. Parents may enroll at the high schools as they will be a part of the parent-child study program.

The past four years there have been parent-child study groups in Allegany County, the number having reached a peak of 22 groups. The parent groups were led by members of the individual groups and some help was given leadership through parent leadership workshops.

After some research was made of the progress of these groups in changes of attitudes, prejudices and better understanding of children, it was decided to select 13 individuals who had been group participants and give them intensive training in leadership of child study groups.

The first workshop for these leaders was held for three days last May. Another workshop for the 13 is planned September 17, 18 and 19. The workshop will be led by Dr. John Kuriz, assisted by Jacob Goering of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland, and the pupil personnel department.

Police Check Death Vehicle For Defects

Retired Telephone Firm Executive Dies In Bay Plunge

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—A station wagon in which a retired New Jersey telephone company executive plunged to his death in Sinepuxent Bay was being examined today for evidence of mechanical failure.

Police Chief Ollie Hudson said there was no immediate explanation of the crash, which cost the life of Morgan H. Sharp, 54, of Ocean City.

Sharp, who moved to Ocean City from Newark about three years ago after retiring as an executive of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., had left three members of his family at a nearby physician's office shortly before the tragedy, Hudson said.

Eyewitnesses said Sharp's station wagon struck a parked car, then proceeded for another block or so to the end of the street, onto a boat launching ramp and into the bay.

Dr. Herman Robbins, deputy medical examiner for Worcester County, issued a verdict of death by drowning.

The Coast Guardsman first to reach the submerged car said Sharp's pet, a cocker spaniel, also died in the wreck.

Sharp is survived by a son, Bart, his daughter-in-law and a grandchild. They had shared a two-apartment dwelling with him.

Jack Palance Said Miscast In 'Manolete'

'Playhouse 90' Opens Fall Season With Dull 'Thud'; Lacks Mood

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Last year's most distinguished drama series, "Playhouse 90," last night started its new season with a resounding thud.

"The Death Of Manolete" suffered from miscasting (Jack Palance in his matador's hat looked like a member of the Mickey Mouse Club); an absence of any true Spanish mood, no suspicion of the tense, coiled spring drama inherent in the story of the most famous bull-fighter of all and other shortcomings too many to detail.

Suzie Parker, a celebrated refugee from high fashion modeling having her first fling at TV, was a wooden stick as an actress, did not appear particularly attractive and drummed a one-note performance which consisted of a sullen attitude and a shake of her head.

Its writing (Paul Monash from Barnaby Conrad's soon-due Manolete book) was as wooden as Miss Parker's performance.

The actor playing Manolete's manager (his name escaped us as the credits passed by) gave the best and truest characterization of the pretty dogged 90 minutes which needed excitement of almost every sort and never truck a spark.

"The Tac Dough," the daytime Jack Barry quiz, moved into the evening NBC schedule last night with Jay Jackson as emcee.

It's just another exercise in what now is quite apparent in the Barry-Enright school of fabricated suspense — all girl contestants veritable Vivienne Neerings, every boy a Van Doren.

Arthur P. McNulty, more than ten years on the New York Municipal Court bench, presiding "judge" of CBS-TV's new judicial soap opera "The Verdict Is Yours," having his first brush with formal acting, explains:

"Every trial lawyer worth his salt has to be an actor, and so does every judge. The interesting thing is, in the theatre you act less than you do in a real court, to keep it from seeming theatrical."

Gleason's ex-away-we-go girl, Theoda Bryant, will be in the TV "Thin Man" cast (that's a fat switch).

QUITS SCHOOL TO SAVE HAIR — Albert Drake, 18, quit Omaha South High School yesterday to save his wavy locks and his mother, Mrs. Richard Drake, shown with him, said she is 100 per cent behind her son. Albert was sent home with a note saying he needed a haircut. But Mrs. Drake said "God gave him his wavy, curly hair" and Albert said "I've always worn my hair this way." Only once did he have a crew cut which Mrs. Drake said made him look "peeled." School authorities said they will study the case. (AP Photofax)

County Sells Bond Issue

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—Three issues of Baltimore County construction bonds totaling $23,550,000 were awarded yesterday to a syndicate headed by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York at net interest of 3.90182 per cent.

This compared with a 21 million dollar issue awarded last Oct. 10 at 3.1537 per cent.

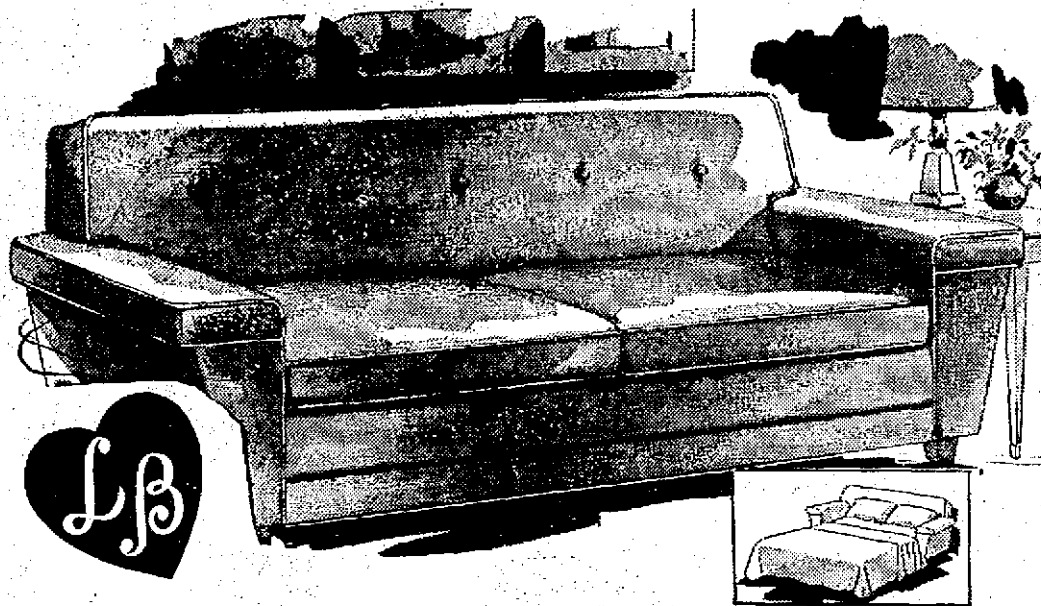

Besides Chase Manhattan, the successfully bidding group included Alex. Brown and Sons, Union Trust Company of Maryland, Robert Garrett and Sons, and C. T. Williams and Co.

The only other bid called for 3.91582 interest. It was submitted by a group head by First National City Bank of New York.

Employment Survey To Be Conducted

The Bureau of Census will conduct a survey here to obtain facts on employment and unemployment, with the data collected scheduled for national statistics.

Questions to be asked include the number of people who are not working because they are in school, retired, or unable to work. The survey will provide information concerning the availability of manpower for both defense and civilian production.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Fiftyish bride is upset when male's widowed cousin warmly embraces him.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I, in our early fifties, have been married less than a year, and we are very devoted to each other.

Recently, at a family gathering, his second and third cousins—a widowed mother and her teenage daughter—made a big fuss over Ralph, kissing him, etc. As they are relatives, this wouldn't have bothered me, I think, except that one of them was heard to say: "You're a married man; maybe your wife won't like it!"

Most of the people there were strangers to me, and this incident made me feel about two inches high.

Man's Annoyed At Her Dismay

When we left, I told Ralph how I felt and he replied, "Pay no attention; they didn't mean anything; it is just their way." He was real put-out because I'd even mentioned it.

Had I cause to feel humiliated? Or was I being foolish to let it bother me?

I really like most of Ralph's people; but should I stay home and let him attend their social events by himself, rather than be embarrassed this way?—F. P.

Woman-To-Woman Knife Throwing?

DEAR F. P.: It is my impression that the widow, at least, was giving you the business—throwing a knife into you, deliberately—in a spirit of malice, activated by envy or jealousy. Apparently it got her goat to see your happiness as Ralph's wife, and your mutual devotion as a pair.

I'll wager she was putting on a show for your benefit, spitefully getting between you and Ralph on this occasion, in a double dealing way that he wouldn't catch onto. She was trying meanly to make you feel an outsider, and lonely, when she kissed him conspicuously and included her daughter in the spectacle.

My reason for thinking so is simply this—an open-hearted, emotionally well-disposed woman, who happens to be the kissing kind, would hospitably embrace both man and wife, when greeting a newlywed cousin and his bride, in a first encounter after their marriage. She would in fact be warmly careful to include the wife in a display of cousinly sentiment—the more so if the bride were a stranger to most of the company.

Inner Meaning Packed A Punch

Your acutely distressed reaction to the widow's capers was an involuntary response to the inner meaning of her behavior. You felt yourself to be a target of hostility and rejection, during the kissing scene—without being able to analyze or articulate your sense of something wrong.

You were awkwardly on the defensive, at a disadvantage, not knowing what to do. Nor could you explain the nature of your discomfort, when you discussed the incident with your husband later.

Evidently Ralph is an unworldly fellow, with no perceptiveness as regards the throat cutting tactics of envious women, towards other women. In this instance, he merely assumed, with naive male complacency, that you'd been made jealous by his widowed cousin's big fuss over him.

So, to your questions—had you cause to feel humiliated? Should you let it bother you?—my answers are: If you are at all a sensitive person, you had cause to feel distressed.

Be Prepared For Next Time

In the circumstances, you could only suffer and shrink inwardly, and thus lose the faculty, temporarily, of enjoying yourself or contributing to the enjoyment of others. It is regrettable that the widow threw this monkey wrench; and regrettable also that your husband hadn't the insight to recognize her game, and block it by coming to your rescue gallantly.

"To be forewarned is to be forearmed," a proverb says. In future, take care of the widow without relying upon Ralph to help you.—M. H.

Summerfield Ouster Asked

WASHINGTON — (INS) — An Oregon Democrat called today for the resignation of Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield on grounds of "incompetence."

Rep. Charles C. Porter said Summerfield's contentions that the Post Office Department is running at a deficit are "poppycock, misleading and ill-conceived."

In a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Associated Third Class Mail Users, he insisted attempts to run the department like a business are "ridiculous" because Congress feels some segments of the population "deserve" a subsidy.

Porter denounced the postmaster for failing to present Congress with data on the effect of his proposed new rates on small business.

State Studies Evitts Creek Dam Request

Avirett Says Work
Can Start Monday
On Oldtown Road

Plans for construction of a seven-acre lake along Oldtown Road at the city limits have been presented to the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources in Baltimore.

The plans were presented yesterday and officials said they would take them under advisement. Attending were backers of the program, the City of Cumberland, State Roads Commission and B&O Railroad.

John W. Avirett, Baltimore, who is planning the development along with his brother, James A. Avirett, this city, urged an early decision, saying contracts have been awarded for the project, subject to the issuance of a permit, and that work will begin Monday if a permit is issued.

No objections were entered by the witnesses, who discussed the project at considerable length.

The City of Cumberland was represented by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney; C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and S. K. Carroll, city planner.

Interested In Two Points

The city was interested in two points in connection with the project. It was assured several weeks ago that a 27-inch sewer which must be relocated if the project is adopted, will be moved at no expense to the city.

The city was also interested in the fact that the plans provide protection for a blowoff valve of the North Branch water line.

The valve would be located on an island in the center of the lake, and the spot will be used as a picnic area.

A. L. Grubb, bridge engineer, represented the State Roads Commission, which is interested since the lake and recreation area will adjoin the Cumberland Thruway.

Lester Kroll appeared for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which is engaged in a $13,000,000 yard expansion program here.

Kroll said that in about 30 days the B&O will want to make a fill at that point and that the railroad is interested in expediting the yard program.

No Objections

All of the witnesses said they had studied the plans for the recreation area and park, and voiced no objections.

Considerable discussion was held, it was reported, on the method which would be used to build the dam. It would employ the splashboard principle, which has been discussed as one possibility of boosting the storage capacity of Lake Gordon.

The lake would be formed by a dam located 200 feet north of Route 51 and about 1,200 feet north of the mouth of Evitts Creek.

Water from Evitts Creek would create an artificial lake with a maximum depth of seven feet.

Another hearing held yesterday before this state department was on the application of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company to use 2,000,000 gallons of water daily from the Savage River near its confluence with the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The mill wants the water for boiler feed water. The company is also applying for permission to construct a pipeline for the transportation of water from this point in the river to the mill.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Fire Network Has Election

FIRE NETWORK—pg. 12 ... Officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Allegany County Fire Network at the annual meeting last night at LaVale Fire Hall.

The network is composed of the City of Cumberland and 14 county volunteer fire departments equipped with two-way radio communication systems.

A contract was renewed for one year with Floyd Harper of Cumberland, to serve as maintenance man for the fire service radio system. Harper said a radio drill will be held at the Frostburg Fire Department station Sunday at 2 p. m. and each company is invited to send one or more representatives. Demonstrations and instruction in use and care of radio will be featured and questions and problems of operators will be answered he said.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker of Cumberland spoke on the operation of the base station in Cumberland and Kenneth Close spoke on the operator and use of the base station at Frostburg. Both said the two-way system is being used more extensively and has served well in several recent emergency situations.

There are 33 radio units operated by the 14 member companies.

David Kirk was re-elected communication officer; Cromwell Zembower was re-elected secretary treasurer. Kirk is a member of the Bowling Green Company and Zembower is of the LaVale unit.

County Health Workers Get Flu Vaccine

Hospitals Inoculate Personnel; State Has Oked Use For Tot

Personnel of the Allegany County Health Department will receive shots of Asiatic flu vaccine as soon as supplies are received from the State Health Department.

Ordered was 40 cubic centimeters of the vaccine, enough to provide immunization against the new virus strain for all regular members of the Health Department staff.

The vital protection has been, or is being provided for the staffs of area hospitals.

Sacred Heart Hospital has given inoculations to about 200 members, representing virtually all of its regular personnel, and others will receive the protection as soon as additional vaccine arrives.

Memorial To Start

A similar inoculation program was scheduled to get under way early this week at Memorial Hospital.

The State Health Department this week reported that it was approving the influenza vaccine containing the "Asian" strain for use in children.

Earlier, state health officials had recommended that in addition to "individuals necessary for the care of the sick and other essential community services" emphasis should be placed on those with chronic illnesses, such as tuberculosis and cardiovascular disease.

Same Starting Age

It was generally agreed that the customary age of three months starting other immunizations also be used for the Asian influenza.

The State Health Department warned that vaccines can be expected to provide protection against Asian influenza only if one of the new variant strains is included.

Administration of influenza virus vaccines in the past has been shown to reduce the incidence of influenza virus prevalent at the time, provided it has been given at least 10 days and not more than a year before exposure.

Speaker Cites Africa's Role

The increasing interest in Africa and its relationship to United States was outlined yesterday by Arthur A. Verner, sales manager of the export division of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, yesterday before the Cumberland Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA.

Africa was long a restricted area because of its lack of transportation, vile climate and lack of natural resources. There were no good harbors, only two navigable rivers and no animals for transportation except elephants, some imported horses and camels.

Since 1945 great interest in Africa has arisen because of increased population there, a higher standard of education, the demand for technical skilled labor to meet the needs of the people and new methods of exploration for natural resources which has resulted in the finding of large quantities of copper, manganese, tungsten and uranium, he stated.

City And County Drop Gas Appeal

A joint recommendation by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners has been adopted whereby the two governmental units will drop an appeal in Allegany County Circuit Court

City Project To Be Finished By Tuesday

Three Offices To Be Combined To Add To Efficiency

Work on the basement area of City Hall which will house the offices of the city clerk, registration, and Civil Service Commission should be completed by Tuesday, Commissioner of Streets and Public Property William H. Buchholtz said today.

The three offices under jurisdiction of City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery are being combined to give greater efficiency in operation and because of the expanding work of the city clerk's office which, Buchholtz said, has grown out of proportion. As situated, Ullery's office is on the first floor, the registration office has been in the basement and Civil Service office on the second floor.

Large Vault Constructed

One large room is being created in the basement by taking over space used by the mental health clinics of the Health Department and by removing two temporary partitions.

Included in work underway is construction of a large vault for storage of records. Buchholtz said the door off an old basement vault has been salvaged which will mean a savings. The new vault is being built of double brick and will be faced with concrete making it water and fire proof. The commissioner said approximately 4,000 bricks are being used in its construction.

An asphalt tile floor and new fluorescent lighting will be installed.

Space which formerly housed the old vault and basement barber shop will be converted into conference or office space for use of the Health Department if desired, Buchholtz said.

Two Entrances

Entrance to the new office area can be gained from two sources. One is the main door of City Hall and then take the basement stairs, and the other is from the Bedford Street side of City Hall. The Bedford Street entrance will be lowered to ground level for easier access.

A major task facing the department is moving of records and furniture to the new office. While work is underway, registration of new voters is being conducted by Ullery at his present office on the first floor, and City Hall. In addition to Ullery, others in the new office will be Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, and Mrs. Joy Oliver, stenographer.

New Teachers Assume Duties

Three new instructors have taken their positions on the faculty of LaSalle High School and as members of the Christian Brothers community here, Brother G. Paulian, principal, announced. They are Brothers Pius, F. Celestine and Mark, all from Philadelphia schools. They replace Brother E. William and Brother G. Nicholas, who are at LaSalle College High School, Philadelphia, and Brother E. Michaels, who is at West Catholic High School, Philadelphia.

Brother Pius teaches geometry, German and biology; Brother Celestine, Latin I and II and English; and Brother Mark, physics and chemistry.

Brother Paulian also pointed out that Brother Thomas has succeeded Brother William as sub-director of the community, and as vice principal of the high school.

He also reported enrollment at LaSalle is about the same as it was last year, 238 boys in grades nine through 12.

Car Hits School Bus; Demolished

A 1950 model car, operated by William Hetrick of Spring Gap, was demolished yesterday after it rammed into the back of a stopped school bus on Oldtown Road.

Injured in the collision was Mrs. Bessie May Hetrick, 52, wife of the driver, who required stitches in a forehead laceration. She was treated at Memorial Hospital.

Trooper Joseph V. Stakem, who investigated, said the school bus, students at St. Mary's Parochial School, was being driven by Roger Pisaneschi, 327 Grand Avenue.

No charges have been preferred pending completion of the investigation.

Sloan Heads Valley High Association

Group To Request Walk Construction; Negotiations Aired

Officers of the Valley High School Improvement Association were elected last night at the Firemen's Armory in Lonaconing, with representatives of the Lonaconing-Midland-Barton area in attendance.

Melvin Sloan, who had been acting as spokesman for the group, was named chairman; Isaac T. Love, co-chairman; and Edward McPartland, secretary. James S. Getty agreed to act as adviser in any legal matter involving the association.

Following the election, Sloan appointed a number of committees to act for the school improvement association. Getty, Raymond J. Miller, McPartland and Sloan will appear before the Lonaconing Town Council to request the city to extend a sidewalk to the end of the corporate limits towards Valley High School.

Hazardous Condition

Sloan explained that he felt Lonaconing should take some steps towards alleviating a hazardous condition for students attending the school, since the Allegany County Board of Education and Maryland State Roads Commission will also be requested to help eliminate the condition.

Mayor Wilmoth F. Garlitz informed the group that he was in favor of the plan, and felt that other council members would go along with the project. However, he asked that the committee appear before council at a meeting Monday evening, September 23, and make a formal appeal for the improvement.

Getty was asked to appear before today's meeting of the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County to request the cleaning out and maintenance of a conduit running into Seldom Seen Creek. The conduit was placed to take care of drainage from a hill in back of Valley High School, but has been blocked up by stones and debris for some time, Sloan explained.

Getty offered correspondence that supported his prior contention that several families in the vicinity of the school had made what appeared to be unreasonable demands when approached concerning the sale of their homes so that sewage work could be done to eliminate a drainage condition on school property.

He also went into detail concerning the negotiations carried out by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, in an attempt to alleviate the condition, and explained that some desired action was blocked because of the conditions of a deed negotiated during the acquisition of property for Valley High School. Getty also explained conditions of the $55,000 item for the Lonaconing school in a school improvement appropriation obtained by the Allegany County Board of Education, citing the fact that the Legislature would not include money for bidders and fencing until the school board had possession of the property for athletic field.

Prior to the conclusion of the meeting, it was pointed out that residents of the area have worked long and hard at improving the school property, with the Valley High Boosters Club alone donating nearly $3,000 towards various projects.

Available To Town It was also stressed that the Board of Education had stated the school's athletic field will be available for use by two organizations once land has been obtained for enlarging the site. This was one of the major factors in the formation of the improvement association, spokesmen explaining that there is no suitable field in the area for youth baseball or softball activities.

Up for considerable discussion was proposed action by the State Health Department if the drainage of raw sewage onto the school

Poster Event Announced By Elks Lodge

A poster contest for local high school students, both public and parochial, is being sponsored by Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, in conjunction with National Newspaper Week, October 1-8.

Participating will be Fort Hill, Allegany, LaSalle, St. Mary's, Catholic Girls' Central, Ursuline and Carver. Entries on 18 by 24-inch posterboard may be on any media with "Your Newspaper Serves" as the theme.

Harry E. Thomas, exalted ruler, said entries will be judged on originality, aptness and design, neatness and quality of workmanship. The deadline is October 1 and cash prizes will be awarded to the first four winners.

Yesterday, Thomas and members of the poster committee visited several schools to acquaint art instructors with the project. "The idea was met with enthusiasm since the school year is just beginning," he said. Thomas pointed out that National Newspaper Week has become one of the most important events on the Elks calendar since the order first joined in its observance in 1949. The program is sponsored by Newspaper Association Managers, Inc.

The local lodge is also planning a dinner to honor Cumberland newspapermen. An exact date and judges for the poster contest will be announced later. Contest winners will attend.

Comprising the poster committee, in addition to Thomas, are Paul G. Stakem, William Mackert, John E. Byrd Jr. and Bruce M. Mackey.

Couple Seeking Injunction Against Quarry Operation

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris has signed an order in Circuit Court giving the Leonard Fry Coal and Stone Company of Mercersburg, Pa., until September 20 to "show cause" why an injunction should not be granted in connection with the manner in which it operates a quarry in the Corrigansville area.

An equity suit was filed in court today by Albert J. Bloom and Margaret M. Bloom, his wife, against the company stating that the quarry was operated on a 24-hour daily basis and as a result they could not obtain their rest.

Other claims by the couple were that the nine-room residence they own is located 800 to 1,000 feet from the quarry and the drilling of stone and rock all night long prevents them from enjoying the comforts of their home.

They state the noise is nerve-racking and can be heard for miles. The Blooms say that heavy charges of dynamite are used in the quarry and the plaster in their kitchen and other parts of the house has been damaged by these blasts. The foundation walls have also been damaged, they added.

Due to the clouds of dust caused by the quarry work the couple states they are required to keep their windows and doors closed at all times. They say despite this, dust seeps into the home and accumulates on furniture, drapes and rugs. They say they can not use their front door as an entrance due to windrows of dust outside the house which tracks into the home.

In addition, they allege that china and glass have been knocked from tables and windows have been broken. The suit was docketed for the Blooms by William L. Wilson, attorney.

The articles are based on scientific polls by the Gilbert organization, which pioneered work in this field.

Boys Hurt When Struck By Cars

City Police are investigating two accidents in which young boys were injured after being struck by automobiles.

Gary Raymond Klavuhn, 7, of 540 Greene Street, was treated in Sacred Heart Hospital for lacerations of the elbow and scalp after the bicycle he was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Paca and South Walnut Place.

Detective Joseph H. Stlicher, who investigated, said the lad was riding his bike down Walnut Place and failed to stop at the intersection.

He said the lad reported he sailed across Paca Street and hit a car driven by Walter J. Slomiany, LaVale Court.

Valentine J. Aman, 3, of 213 Hay Street, was treated in the same hospital for lacerations of the elbow and scalp after he was struck by a car on North Centre Street at the Viaduct.

Det. Stlicher said the child darted in front of a car driven by Harriet Fay Jenkins, 29, of 531 O'Neil Street.

Pay Increase Awarded By Arbitrator

A referee of the American Arbitration Association has awarded a seven-cent wage increase to employees of the Crystal Laundry Company, in a decision requested by the firm and Local 687 of the Laundry, Dry Cleaning and Linen Supply Workers Union, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The increase is retroactive to June 10, at which time the contract between the firm and union expired. The arbitrator also ruled that the increase would be across-the-board, rejecting the request of the union that any increase to inside workers earning above the existing minimum should be raised in proportion.

Negotiations between the firm and Local 687 had resulted in settlement of all issues excepting that of a wage increase. Representatives of the two groups had agreed on a 40-hour week for the covered employees and several other minor items. Crystal employees previously worked 44 hours weekly.

The only stumbling block in the negotiations was the matter of a wage increase, with the union turning down a five-cent increase offered by the company. The union instead asked for a minimum wage of not less than $1 an hour, and a proportionate increase to those employees already earning above that minimum.

The matter was turned over to arbitration when neither the union or firm would agree to the other's request. The arbitrator informed the two parties that the case was unusual insofar as it was rarely that wages are arbitrated. It is usually other contract proposals, such as fringe benefits, that are offered for arbitration, he explained.

The wage increase will be effective for a one-year period extending from June 10, the arbitrator ruled.

Approximately 50 employees of the laundry are covered by the contract, while about ten other employees, primarily route men, will also be granted the increase.

Some Showers Forecast Here

Showers and scattered thunderstorms are forecast tonight, and Cumberlanders are to have cooler weather tomorrow, according to the forecast for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Those in downtown Cumberland yesterday afternoon experienced a 92-degree temperature coupled with high humidity.

During the night the city had .05 inch of rainfall. Tomorrow is to have a few showers and cooler weather.

Sunday will be fair and a little cooler and less humid. The rain, which has done much to alleviate the drought conditions, still is soaking in the parched ground. Streams are not up very much.

County Orders Signs Placed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today authorized J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to install "No Parking" signs along one side of Forest Avenue in Bowman's Addition from Orr to Park streets.

Chapman told the commissioners that residents on Forest Avenue had complained about the situation to him and he suggested they petition the board for relief. Chapman said the petition was drawn up and signed by residents of the area affected.

James S. Getty appeared before the board to request that the conduits along Seldom Seen Road be cleaned so that the Valley High School property would not be damaged by surface water. The matter was referred to Chapman.

Fast Time Extended For Month

Wilkinson States Move Not In Best Interest Of Area

With Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voting against the proposal, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today adopted a resolution extending Daylight Saving Time through October.

Wilkinson said he was voting against the resolution because of the effect on various classifications of workers, on school children and also because the public did not vote on such an extension of "fast time."

He said he was "not being arbitrary but felt that it was in the best interests of the city and county not to extend Daylight Saving Time."

Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Orr said they felt the extension would prevent any confusion as practically all of the counties and the cities of Baltimore, Washington, New York and others were extending "fast time" through October.

The resolution states the extension of the time system in other parts of the state and county last year caused inconvenience and annoyance to the residents of the county in the transaction of their commercial, economic, industrial and social affairs.

The Legislature passed an act during the session last winter authorizing the county to extend Daylight Saving Time under certain conditions. One of these was the extension by other counties, cities and areas of the DST period.

Under the resolution, Daylight Saving Time will be continued throughout Allegany County until 2 a. m. October 27.

The adoption of the extended period for "fast time" will cause some confusion in affairs with neighboring counties which are scheduled to go to Standard Time on September 29.

Barbers Hold Haircut Cost

The price of haircuts in unionized barbershops in the Cumberland area will remain at $1.25 as a result of action taken last night by Barbers International Local No. 314, AFL-CIO.

At the meeting in the Labor Temple the barbers voted down a proposal to increase the price of haircuts to $1.50. The vote rejecting the price increase was by a big margin, according to Fred B. Driscoll, secretary.

Driscoll said the general consensus of the barbers was that conditions are stabilized in the area and an attempt to hold the price line to combat inflation was deemed advisable.

A grievance committee comprised of Vincent Balling, Frostburg, Irvin C. Brant and William McCullough, both of Cumberland, was named to handle cases pertaining to the contract.

Two members, David L. Miller and James L. Wilson, were named representatives to the new central labor body of AFL-CIO unions which merged Tuesday.

Cause Of Dim Lights Checked

Street lights dimmed in downtown Cumberland south of Baltimore Street to Thomas Street due to a faulty regulator. Potomac Edison Company officials said today.

Today, however, regulators were being tested. They cannot be opened while it is raining, as it was off and on during the night.

Man Accused After Threat With Knife

BALTIMORE — George C. Polts Jr., accused of impersonating an FBI agent, threatening a woman with a knife, and ordering her to disrobe in her apartment, was placed under $1,000 bail yesterday.

Polts, 32, of Elkton, Md., was granted a reduction from the original bail of $10,000 by U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart. Volkart was told Polts approached a car driven by a 31-year-old woman, identified himself as an FBI agent and ordered her to drive him to her Newark, Del., apartment.

It was testified he told her he was investigating the car she was driving, remained in the woman's apartment about 10 hours on a pretext of waiting for a fellow agent, and drank "quite a bit" during his stay.

The knife threat and order to disrobe came during this time, Volkart was told, and the woman finally escaped when a friend came to the apartment.

Asian flu inoculations have become a new basic defense weapon for college and professional football teams.

With the collegiate season just around the corner, many of the teams had had or plan to have their players inoculated with the serum to combat virus influenza infection.

The coast-to-coast campaign was given a "shot in the arm" when the University of Florida was forced to cancel its opening game which had been scheduled for next Friday night against UCLA.

National champion Oklahoma heads the list of powerhouses whose players already have been inoculated. There have been no flu cases reported in the Sooner ranks.

Iowa, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Michigan, Michigan State, Missouri, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Tulane, Miami (Fla.), George Washington and Temple are among schools where the players have been given the shots.

A spokesman for the Army team at West Point told International News Service players will be inoculated shortly, as will the entire corps of cadets. He said all members of the armed service schools will receive the anti-flu injections.

The University of Maryland plans to administer the serum as soon as it is available. Others in the same situation are Indiana, Purdue, California, Stanford, Penn. Columbia, Southern Cal., Washington, Arizona, Iowa State, Oregon and Rice.

In New England, Boston College, Boston U., Harvard and Holy Cross are all awaiting the serum.

No flu cases or inoculations were reported at the University of Texas, Kansas U., Kansas State and Northwestern.

In the National Football League, the San Francisco 49ers, the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Detroit Lions already have had their shots. The New York Giants, Cleveland Browns, Chicago Cardinals, Chicago Bears and Los Angeles Rams say they will be administered.

The Cardinals had 40 players stricken with the virus last month in their training camp and the Bears currently have one player in a Chicago hospital with the virus.

Generally, aside from the U. of Florida case, there have been only a few instances of influenza outbreaks in the college ranks and the coaches hope to keep it that way.

Richmond, Furman Set For Openers Tomorrow

By The Associated Press
Optimism soared in the Furman and Richmond football camps today as the two Southern Conference teams put the finishing touches on preparations for their season openers tomorrow night.

Furman is at home to East Tennessee State and Richmond tackles East Carolina at Portsmouth, Va., in the 8 p. m. (EST) games that inaugurate the 1957 campaign for conference clubs.

At Furman, Coach H. M. Hobbs said his team "is in better shape for an opening game than either of my two previous seasons."

At Richmond, Coach Ed Merrick said: "The boys look like they're ready. The spirit is the best since practice began."

Furman has convinced Hobbs to wide open attack will be his best bet against East Tennessee. Landis' Work Pleading
"At this stage, passing seems the best phase of our game," Hobbs said. "If the situation permits, we'll be throwing the ball."

Encouraging to Merrick has been Jerry Landis at the questionable quarterback post. If Landis can throw as he has been throwing in practice, the Spiders might assault East Carolina principally through the air, too.

Merrick, however, also puts a lot of faith in the ground attack featuring linebackers David Ames, Mickey Marinikov and Danny Wagner. Wagner has pushed the speedy Marinikov out of the starting lineup.

Tapering-off drills were on tap today for both Furman and Richmond. Each practiced lightly yesterday, concentrating on offense. Davidson, a short on quarterbacks, welcomed a new candidate yesterday—southpaw sophomore Duncan McEacher, who played briefly in 1956. He'll compete with Tom Redding and Charlie Benson for the starting job.

WVU Stresses Defense
Hallbacks Ralph Anastasio and Bill McClure intercepted passes and ran for "touchdowns" in West Virginia's morning practice, indicating anew how tough defensive the Mountaineers will be this season.

Dick Claypool, Mike Ennis and sophomores Jerry Power and Bill Smythe were standouts as George Washington put the emphasis on punting and punt returns. Defense against both running and passing drew stress at VMI.

Virginia Tech, whose poor condition worries Coach Frank Mosley, passed up a morning drill but scrimmaged lightly in the afternoon. Len Rubal, Jay Sanner, Charlie Sidwell and Dave Edmunds ripped off good gains and tackles Mike Lashley and Elliott Schauback sparkled in the line during William & Mary's scrimmage.

Washington & Lee had its first full-scale scrimmage. Freshman tackle Tom Budd and freshman halfback Bob Funkhouser impressed Coach Lee McLaughlin.

Ultimatum Set By Richardson On Aussie Trip

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Ham Richardson, America's top-ranked tennis player, issued an ultimatum today that any trip to Australia for Davis Cup competition is out of the question—unless his wife goes with him.

But Davis Cup Captain Billy Talbot was equally adamant with a reply to the former national collegiate champion that the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. "will allow no wives to accompany their husbands to Australia."

The issue arose last week during the national championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., and Richardson said he would think the problem over before giving a final decision.

Feels He Can Win Points
The red-haired Richardson, long a stalwart in America's Davis Cup planning, conceded he would like to go to Australia for the challenge round in December and feels "I can win points for the states in singles."

But he backed up his argument with the top brass in American tennis that "I can play better tennis when my wife is with me. She is a great asset to me in tennis as she is in all things."

Richardson and Talbot aired the dispute with newsmen yesterday after a scheduled exhibition match here was rained out.

Talbot, the Davis Cup squad's non-playing captain who is also married, said he did not believe it was too much "to ask an American player to spend six weeks away from his wife while representing the United States."

Ham Counters
Richardson sprang back with a counter that the extra cost involved amounted to only $1,500 or $1,400 travel fare.

"The matter of money should not mean that much to the association," he said.

Richardson was recently named to the Davis Cup squad, along with Gardner Mulley, Herbie Flam and Vic Seixas. The dispute over the "no wives" rule came later.

Talbot said he instigated the rule and added he believed in its "soundness."

Talbot said he felt that U. S. forces would have a much better team if Richardson would play and added he hoped the young Westfield, N. J., ace would change his mind.

His value to the team, said Richardson, "would be enhanced if I were allowed to take my wife with me. I am sorry that the association feels otherwise."

Maple Inn Turns Back Gray's, 13-5, In Tourney

Pounding three hurlers for 11 hits, Maple Inn Old Germans trounced Gary's Tavern, 13-5, last night in the lone game of the Western Maryland softball tourney at Penn Avenue Field.

The Old Gees pounced on Jack "Beef" Eckard for five runs in the first inning and added a pair in the second for a lead which enabled Jerry O'Baker to coast on the mound for the winners.

O'Baker was touched for 10 hits and five runs, but allowed only one tally after the third inning.

Dick Clay was the chief thorn in O'Baker's side, collecting a home run, double, and two singles in four trips to the plate for Gray's. Lee Cover had two hits and scored three runs for the losers.

Jerry Neubiser, Carter and Leroy Lease each had two hits for Maple Inn.

Gene Mason, City Rec director, said that Tuesday's opening first-round games which were postponed because of rain will be played on Monday.

These games pit the Spa Bar and Lacy's Delicacies in the 6 p. m. contest and Peskin's and the Moose in the 7:30 engagement trail who head up the bracket. The tournament will then field.

Middleweights Tangle Tonight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A dozen former champions will be in the crowd tonight watching Randy Sandy of New York City and Germany's Franz Stuzina tangle in a 10-round middleweight bout.

Free-swinging Randy is a 7-5 favorite over the aggressive Teuton in the nationally televised bout.

The former champions are here for a pre-fight testimonial to welterweight titleholder Carmen Basilio, who battles Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown Sept. 23.

Stuzina, 27, of Bremen, has fought 16 bouts in this country since 1956. Overall, he has a record of 40 victories, 18 defeats and 13 draws. The 26-year-old Sandy has a record of 19-6-1.

NBC will televise and broadcast the fight beginning at 10 p. m. (EDT).

Got It? GET IT!
QUEEN CITY AREA, MD.

LOADED WITH HONORS—Cecil Grimes, manager of Cumberland Outdoor Club, holds two trophies donated by Queen City Brewing Company while Rocking Chair League president Pete Carpenter lays another on his shoulder. The trophy in Grimes' right hand is the John A. Fradiska Memorial for winning the playoff championship and the one in the left is the Old German award for copping the pennant. The oversized bat is a traveling trophy presented by the league which held its annual post-season dinner last night at the BPO Elks Home. Bob Ritter of Ritter's A. C. won the sportsmanship award.

Need For Coaching Help Stressed By Cumberland Tutors

The need for broader athletic programs in county high schools is being urged by local coaches.

Guests at the post-season dinner of the Rocking Chair Softball League last night at the Elks Home heard the problems aired by local mentors. Bill Hahn, Fort Hill football tutor, sounded the keynote when he compared local programs with those of schools in the area and other coaches then took up the cause.

"Cumberland used to be on top in the calibre of football played," Hahn declared, "but we're definitely on the downgrade." He went on to point out that some schools have four or five coaches in football whereas "we have but two."

"I don't care how good of a coach you are, three or four men can still do a better job than two," the Sentinel boss declared. "Basketball, baseball and other sports have kids program but we have nothing in football until youngsters get in high school. Every year we have at least 30 boys reporting for football who don't know the first thing about putting on shoulder pads."

May Quit Job
Hahn, whose won-lost record at Fort Hill stamps him as Cumberland's most successful high school football coach, intimated that he would quit his post if help is not forthcoming.

Chet Payne, beginning his second season at Allegany, went on record as favoring a strong junior high program. "This, of course, means more coaching help," he stated.

Bobby Cavanaugh, beginning his 30th year as basketball coach at Fort Hill, opined that the (Allegany County) has stopped short in its athletic progress. "Athletics deserve a prominent place in our educational system," he asserted, "and we should have enough manpower to treat them like any other subject. There are plenty of teachers for English and other subjects, but we athletics are limited to one or two instructors."

Cavanaugh declared that there is no other place to get training in competition like athletics. "Competition is the very thing our students will be going out in life to meet and when the American people lose sight of this, we become suckers."

Coaches' Views Supported
The viewpoints of the coaches were supported by civic leaders who observed policies of schools in other sections of the county. Robert M. Hainsfurther, plant manager of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's new $35,000,000 works in Cumberland, said Western Pennsylvania's Har-Brack High, which sent the Modzelewski brothers to All-American fame at the University of Maryland, had three or four coaches for football.

And L. N. Duncan, general manager of the Queen City Brewing Company, said there was a greater emphasis on high school athletics in Indiana and Minnesota where he lived before coming to Cumberland.

In addition to citing their needs for coaching help, the schoolboy mentors outlined their prospects for the 1957 football season. Most of them were pessimistic, as usual.

Tom O'Connor, Ridgeley, and Jerry Calhoun, Beall's new coach, told of what fans can expect from their schools while Brother Thomas, athletic director, spoke on behalf of coach Norm Geatz who was in New York on business.

ODC Gets Awards
Assistant coaches also made short talks. They were Wayne Boor, Fort Hill; "Barney" Tucker, Ridgeley; Frank Munson, Beall; Paul Cuba, Allegany, and Don Harden, LaSalle.

When toastmaster Jim Brown finally got around to softball, members of the Outdoor Club's championship team took the limelight. The Queen City Brewing Company presented the Old German trophy to ODC for winning the pennant with a 25-1 record and the first annual John

Robinson's Popoff Seen Aid To Braves

(Last of a Series)
By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember Jackie Robinson's popoff against the Milwaukee Braves last winter. A Milwaukee player who understandably asked not to be identified said it was the best thing that could have happened to the team.

Robinson said the Braves lost the 1956 pennant to the Brooklyn Dodgers because they spent too much time in night clubs. Everybody on the Braves hastened to deny it but it is a matter of record that the club has been under stricter management this year.

There's no question that the playoff charges directed at the Braves by Robinson made the club self-conscious and more determined.

Stirs Up Players
Jackie did what no Milwaukee player could do last year. He stirred up the players. It was the sort of charge that could have been made against any club in baseball, because, by the law of averages, there are one or two night life boys on every club. Singling out the Braves, the players thought, was unfair and hitting below the belt. It changed their entire outlook.

The Braves were a chastened and broken bunch at the end of last season. After Brooklyn overlooked them that last weekend they looked and behaved like a defeated team. The night before the last game of the season, in St. Louis, some of the Braves went out and moistened their disappointment.

It was not a serious group and no one knew it better than Manager Fred Haney. It is common knowledge now that in the clubhouse after the last game, Haney told the players:

"You think I've been a so-and-so, don't you? Well, you so-and-so's better go out and have a good time this winter because I'm really going to be tough next spring."

Haney's Toughest Job
Haney, who served as coach before he replaced Charlie Grimm as manager in the middle of June, knew what he was up against. In private, he told friends:

"This is the toughest job I've ever faced. I mean it. Some of these fellows are spoiled rotten. When you take a team to spring training, you can get things done the way they ought to be. But in mid-season, you can only do so much."

Some of the players bridled under Haney's tight rein. The bristling attitude continued right down to the season's end. More than one referred to him as "Little Napoleon" and "Frankie Freddy" behind his back. The team played tight and tense baseball down the stretch and some of them even blamed Haney's consistent use of the bunt for it.

There is no such talk this year. An observer, after traveling with the club for a while, can't help but observe the harmony, good fellowship and cooperation this year. The team definitely has grown up. (Continued on Page 17)

Trowbridge's Relief Work Saves Braves

By International News Service
When pre-season experts picked Milwaukee to win the pennant because the Braves had pitching "depth," one of the hurlers hidden under that all-embracing label was Bob Trowbridge.

The big right-hander proved the experts right, last night at least, when he came out of the bullpen to relieve Bob Buhl in the fourth inning with the bases loaded and one out.

With the aid of some fancy fielding by Andy Pafko and some dull base-running by the Brooklyn Dodgers, Trowbridge got out of that jam and held the Dodgers scoreless the rest of the way to win, 2 to 1.

Trowbridge gave up only four hits as he won his sixth game in 11 decisions.

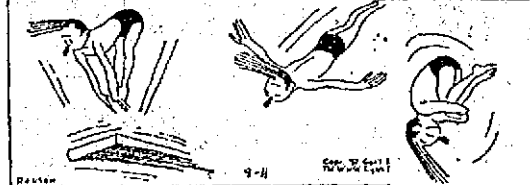

Last year was Bob's first in the big time and he compiled a 3-and-2 record with an excellent 2.65 earned-run average.

The 27-year-old right-hander from Hudson, N. Y., opened his baseball career with Eau Claire of the Northern League in 1950 and then spent the next three years in the Air Force, where he was a sensation in service ball.

While in uniform, Trowbridge won 61, lost only 5 and struck out more than 1,200 batters in three seasons. Once out of the service he worked his way through Jacksonville, Toledo and Wichita until he earned a shot at the Braves.

He is married and has one daughter.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Light drills were scheduled today for Maryland's football team.

The Millers lost last night, 5 to 1, in the third of the best-four-of-seven series.

Colts Cut Loose Dick Chorovich

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, fed up with over-led Dick Chorovich, have let the huge offensive tackle go.

Twice the Colts offered the former Miami, Ohio, lineman bonuses to cut his weight below 270. He didn't. Coach Weeb Ewbank said yesterday, "We have been hoping he would mature, but we can't wait any longer."

Chorovich was a starter in the offensive line as a rookie in 1955. His departure left the Colts with 40 players for their National Football League exhibition Sunday against the Chicago Cardinals here.

Unlucky Expert Sobs His Woes

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The unlucky expert backed me into a corner. Since I had no escape I was forced to listen to his latest tale of woe which is even more heart rending than any of his other stories.

It seems that he decided his luck might be different on Friday the 13th so he tried a rubber bridge game. Sure enough! He got vulnerable on the first hand and on the second hand picked up a real rock crusher. He reached three no-trump after a spade overall by East and anyone else would have made game and rubber but look what happened to him.

West chose to open the deuce of his partner's suit from king-deuce. A most unusual lead but deadly against the unlucky expert. East played the nine. He decided the lead had been a singleton. The unlucky expert won with the queen and could count only eight tricks. He tried to sneak through a heart by leading the deuce and the roof fell on him.

West hopped right up with the ace and led the king of spades. East overtook and the unlucky expert was down three.

If West had made his normal opening lead of the king of spades there would be no way to beat the hand.

I asked, "What happened after that?" He replied, "The opponents proceeded to bid and make two slams. I quit the game and went home to arrive just in time to watch my house burn to the ground."

Murrow Defies Superstition In Show

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Murrow, who defies superstition himself by launching the fifth "Person to Person" season over CBS-TV tonight, has collected quite an assortment of crotchets, charms and quails in interviewing the great and near great.

Concert star Gladys Swarthout ignores one old "don't" by singing in the dressing room, but goes into a snit over overturned salt.

Says Lisa Kirk of night clubs and stage: "I touch wood when I sneeze and I feel rain means good luck."

He got the social life into which you fit naturally. You arbitrate and reason fairly but do not like arguments or dissension. Curb a tendency to correct others' failings. (King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Duchess of Windsor, who dislikes the number 13, won't put a hat on a bed or hang anything on a doorknob.

Audrey Meadows advised Murrow: "If something happens, you spin around three times, sit down and count to 10."

Imogene Coca vowed she wasn't superstitious, but told Murrow she wears one certain pair of patched blue jeans to every rehearsal.

For the first guest of the new season, "Person to Person" has Julie London, another lass who dates on 13—she even insisted her first three record albums each contain 13 songs. The other guest is to be Robert F. Kennedy, counsel for the Senate Rackets Committee. Not a hint of superstition there—or with Murrow himself.

"I'm only careful about one thing," insists the commentator. "I never cross a street against the light."

CHANNEL CHATTER: Gordon Duff, producer of "The Night America Trembled," explains that the reason Orson Welles got nary a mention as the guy who triggered the original airwave ruckus was because CBS network officials unsuccessfully tried for weeks to reach him, then decided he could not be mentioned without his consent. . . .

West Germany now has her first U-boat submarine for its new armed fleet. It is a holdover from World War II when it was scuttled. It has been raised and refitted.

Coin Club Plans Membership Drive

The first meeting of the fall season of the Western Maryland Coin Club will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

The club, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, has functioned successfully during the summer months by holding meetings in Constitution Park.

The last outdoor meeting was a club-sponsored picnic prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bloss, members of the club.

and by Miss Yutzy and Miss Ritchey on the state convention last week at Gettysburg, Pa. Miss DeHaven gave a special report on activities in a Lutheran work camp.

The club, according to A. J. Cioni, president, will be very active in coming months.

Scheduled for October is a foreign coin exhibit. Since the exhibit coincides with the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip to this country, it will consist of coin, medals and currency of Great Britain and her dominions.

Miss Martha Shaner is chairman of the exhibit committee and will be assisted by John Dorn and O. D. Keyser.

The club will have a display at the hobby show of the Business and Professional Women's Club November 4-6.

The coin club is also working on several projects for its junior members.

A drive will be made for new members, and anyone interested should contact the Recreation Department.
